DISMANTLING OF HUGE STILL IS SEEN BY SCORES

Crowds Of Curious Have Visited Liquor Farm In Whiteside Co.

Men working under the supervision of federal prohibition officers of Chicago this afternoon will have completed the destruction and dismantling of the huge alcohol distilling plant on what is known as the Bessie farm in Whiteside county, Illinois. Thousands of persons have visited the farm since early yesterday morning when news of the sudden visit of federal officers became known. Up until noon today no arrests had been made and officers on the scene were non-committal on the future plans, other than to say a complete report of their findings would be made to the head office at Chicago at once.

Mash inches deep flooded the big barn yard yesterday afternoon as the big tubs were tapped and emptied. Holes were bored near the bottom of each vat and the contents followed a natural course which led directly to the barn yard. When emptied the 25 large wooden stave vats will be torn down and disposed of. Each stage will be split, rendering it unfit for further use and the large amount of two-inch lumber has been given to the Whiteside county home. Three motor trucks and workmen were on the scene this morning dismantling the vats and hauling them away.

Sugar to Poor Farm.

Over a half carload of corn and brown sugar was turned over to the superintendent of the Whiteside county home yesterday by the federal prohibition officers in charge of the dismantling process. All of the copper and brass fittings, pipes, tubing and engines were given to a Sterling junk dealer who under the direction of the federal officers dismantled the plant and destroyed each article, making it unfit for use again in a still. New steam and electric water pumps were attacked with sledgehammers and reduced to junk, as were two new electric lighting plants. Acetylene gas torches were applied to the metal tanks, vats and the 25-foot copper still. Practically every article within the barn was to be removed, with the exception of the big steel boiler which operated pumps and steam for the plant. Large holes were burned in the boiler with the acetylene torches and the flues and the flues were burned in such a manner as to render them useless.

Neighbors Suspicious.

Federal prohibition officers questioned farmers residing in the neighborhood but about the only information they could secure was in substance:

"We did not know exactly what was going on there, but we had our suspicions, because of the large number of cars and trucks which were seen entering and leaving the place."

One neighbor stated to a Telegraph reporter that he knew at one time a few weeks ago that eleven men were working or staying on the farm. None of us neighbored with Henry Kane of Sterling who was living on the farm. He did not appear to be farming a great deal and there were big cars and trucks going and coming much of the time, mostly after supper in the evenings. We never smelled the odor of the mash, but had our suspicions as to what was going on there. I don't recall having seen any of this equipment being hauled to the place or the sugar and yeast."

Henry Kane, whose residence is said to be on Wallace street in Sterling, was said to have lived on the farm with his wife and small child until very recently. A government agent was assigned to make a thorough investigation of the records at the Whiteside county recorder's office at Morrison yesterday afternoon for the purpose of securing the history of the farm on which the plant was located.

Polo Boy, Driver Of Death Car, Released

Gordon Burton, 17-year-old Polo high school senior, driver of the Ford car which killed Mrs. Sarah Duffey in Polo Sunday night, was released from the Ogle county jail this morning when Polo friends furnished bonds of $10,000 under which he was held to the grand jury by Justice Michael Farrell of Oregon Tuesday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Daughter Is Taken From Keller Home

Hazel, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Keller of 740 N. Jefferson ave., passed away at the home of her parents at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Short funeral services were to be held at the Preston chapel at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. W. W. Marshall officiating, after which the body will be taken to Dongola, Ill., for burial services Saturday. The condolence of many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

PILOT DISCOVERED FIRE

Franklin, Pa., July 24—(UP)—A New York-Cleveland air mail pilot circled his plane over Clintonville today to arouse residents after he had discovered a burning house one mile east of town.

The house owned by Mack McCurdy, and which was unoccupied, burned, however.

The fire, after relief arrived at the scene, sped westward again.

MONUMENTAL TASK

Omaha, Neb., July 24—(UP)—A corps of workers in John Pistone's cobbler shop is working overtime to complete construction of a pair of shoes for Primo Carnera, the Italian boxing giant, before he is deported to Italy.

"If the shoes aren't ready before Carnera leaves the freight charges will eat up my profits," said Pistone. "The shoes are whoppers."

RADIO TIP WORKED

New York, July 23—(AP)—Deputy Surveyor John H. Magill, who says he dreams of running activities, follows his dream clues and sometimes makes seizures, was tinkering with his radio set last night.

Outside the broadcast channels he heard a station working in the Morse code, which he understands, most of the message was garbled, but he heard "Patria 4,000."

He pulled out the shipping list and saw that the Fabre liner Patria was docked in Brooklyn. A squad of agents was dispatched to the liner and in her coal bunkers uncovered 4,000 bottles of what they said were choice liquors, worth $40,000.

NOMINATIONS AT STAKE

Herkimer, N. Y., July 24—(UP)—Daniel V. Strobel and Fred Sauer are going to play pitch tonight, as they have countless times since boyhood. But tonight's games will be more important than the others because the winner's prize is the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Herkimer county.

So, instead of playing by themselves with just several of "the boys" looking on, Dan and Fred will engage in combat formally at 6:30, three games of 11 points each, and no kibitzers allowed.

Another contest will test out the potential County Purchasing Agent's qualifications as a pinocchio expert. Three candidates for the appointive position, Marshal L. Hyde, John Frank and Maurice Kraus, will see who can meld fastest and most frequently. The best man will get the Republican support.

Amboy Artist Has Picture On Display

A show window at the Melott furniture store contains a picture painted by Herbert Conner, well known Amboy artist, which will ultimately go to St. Paul, Minn.

The picture is that of an Indian warrior standing on a prominence overlooking a stream and in the distance is a canoe with an occupant. The story back of the painting is that of the coming of the first white man to the spot. St. Paul, now occupies the spot. Mr. Conner, who is familiar with the topography of the location, uses the high bluff along which Summit Avenue now runs, for the Indian warrior, with his background of tepee and camp fire. The Red man is looking over the valley of the Mississippi and the lower foreground where the business section of St. Paul now stands. The man in the canoe represents the first white visitor.

The picture is very attractive and interesting, with pleasing colors and faithful portrayal of detail.

"LITTLE ROCKET" LEADS

Houston, Tex., July 24—(UP)—Lee Gehlbach of Detroit landed his plane "The Little Rocket," in Houston airport at 12:05 P. M. today, leading the field in the Little Rocket-to-Houston lap of the All-American air derby. He made the lap in 3 hours and 31 seconds, winning first money for the lap, $500. Stub Quimby of Moline was second and Jim Wedell, New Orleans, third.

FRED BURKE, "MOST DANGEROUS MAN ALIVE", SOUGHT BY AUTHORITIES OF CENTRAL ILLINOIS FOLLOWING "TIP"

Chicago, July 24—(UP)—The hunt for Fred Burke, who police call the "most dangerous man alive," became active in two parts of the midwest today.

Police and county authorities at Springfield, Ill., heard that Burke was enroute to Springfield from Peoria with a prominent Illinois bootlegger. Visits were made to shacks along the Sangamon river in the belief that the gunman might be hiding there.

Indianapolis police still watched roads from the north on a tip that

NEWSPAPER MEN SUMMONED FOR JURY QUESTIONS

Cook Co. Grand Jurors Invite Ten To Appear Before Them

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—Ten newspapermen, two police officers and the Corporation Counsel of Chicago were asked today to appear before the grand jury in pursuance of its investigation of crime and racketeering.

The grand jury began the inquiry on its own initiative Tuesday with a hearing of the story of Harry T. Brundige, St. Louis newspaperman, who related what he had learned of the local situation by his own investigation.

No formal subpoenas were issued. Instead, the grand jurors sent telephone invitations to the thirteen men asking them to appear today and tomorrow.

Robert M. Lee, City Editor of the Tribune; Harry Read, City Editor of the Evening American and his assistant, Harry Reutlinger, were asked to appear this morning.

Russell Invited

William F. Russell, former Police Commissioner, and John Stege, his detective chief, who resigned shortly after the murder of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, were summoned to testify Friday morning. With them will appear Samuel Eitelson, Corporation Counsel and chief advisor of the Mayor; Ted Tod, reporter for the Herald and Examiner, and William H. Stuart of the American staff.

Friday afternoon the grand jury has asked the appearance of Walter A. Strong, publisher of the Daily News; Richard Pinnegan, Managing Editor of the Daily Illustrated Times; R. C. Cornell, circulation manager of the Herald and Examiner; Leland H. Reese, crime reporter for the Daily News; and James Murphy, veteran police officer discharged by the Times last week because it developed that he formerly held partnership in the operation of a speakeasy.

If this afternoon's evidence indicates the advisability of the course, the grand jury indicated it would call Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Tribune.

Whether former Commissioner Russell, Stege, and Eitelson, who has been described as the instigator of Russell's elevation to the Commissioner's position, were called in connection with the Lingle murder inquiry was not indicated by the jurors. Examination of the bank accounts of the dead Tribune reporter has shown that Russell and Lingle maintained a light stock market account with a broker here, and Lingle was an intimate friend of both police officers.

Harry Read of the American has already given explanation in his newspaper of a visit with Al Capone at the gangster's Miami home. Reese of the News answered reports concerning himself with the statement that his automobile was provided from a highway recently in an apparent attempt upon his life and that he had previously been threatened.

Frank Foster, indicted for the murder of Lingle, went through the routine of a court appearance today and pleaded not guilty. He was brought back from California to be questioned concerning the weapon found beside Lingle's dead body. He had been the original owner of the revolver.

Chicago Clerk Is Victim Of Anthrax

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—The death of John Bloch, 43 years old, from a disease diagnosed as anthrax, puzzled the Coroner's office today. Anthrax is a virulent, febrile disease of cattle, sheep and horses, rare among humans except those working in wool or hair or handling the hides of infected beasts. Bloch's work as a clerk required him to handle nothing by which the disease is usually communicated. An autopsy revealed the anthrax bacilli, Dr. J. J. Kearns of the Coroner's office said.

A white whale, declared to be rare among the denizens of the sea, was sighted off the Newfoundland Banks recently by a coast guard cutter.

Burke was heading that way. Guards were sent out to arrest a man and two women in an automobile late yesterday, but the motorist established his identity as Clifford Burke, unrelated to the alleged killer, and was freed.

Burke is wanted, as the "bigger man" in the Moran gang massacre here in 1929, as policeman for a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman and for the killing in Chicago of Thomas Bonner. Bonner had let it become known that he was trailing Burke in the hope of collecting the rewards for his capture.

REPORT RANSOM FOR PEORIA MAN HAS BEEN FIXED

Relatives Refuse Aid To Officers Hunting Kidnapers

BULLETIN

Peoria, Ill., July 24—(UP)—Released by his kidnapers, William Urban, wealthy Peoria sportsman, appeared at his summer home near Alta, Ill., shortly after noon today. He refused to discuss his abduction.

Two associates, Frank Daugherty and Ed Mahoney, who left on a mysterious errand yesterday, supposed in response to ransom instructions, returned with Urban. They also refused to talk.

Peoria, Ill., July 24—(UP)—Relatives and associates of Will O. Urban, kidnapped Peoria sportsman, refused to assist authorities in the search for him today, fearing that if they talk too much, his abductors will kill him.

However, belief was general that ransom reported to have been demanded by Urban's kidnapers has been raised, and that instructions for its delivery are being awaited.

The impression that a demand already has been made was strengthened when Frank Daugherty and Ed Mahoney, associated with Urban left on a mysterious errand in Daugherty's automobile yesterday.

The United Press correspondent was informed that a note was delivered at the Empire hotel yesterday morning fixing the amount of the ransom. No word has been received from Daugherty and Mahoney since their departure.

The amount of the purported ransom was not known. Urban was forced into the kidnappers' automobile Monday while driving from his summer home. His 15-year-old son was captured also, but was freed near the home. The abductors, four or five in number, apparently had laid careful plans, and knew of Urban's daily routine.

The theory they were business enemies of Urban who envied his reputed $100,000 monthly collections from a baseball pool has been suggested.

DECIDE BABIES MIXED

Chicago, July 24—(UP)—By a vote of 12 to one, the scientists appointed by the city Health Department to determine the parentage of infant sons born on the same day three weeks ago to Mrs. Charles Bamberger and Mrs. William Watkins at Englewood hospital, decided today that the babies had been mixed by the hospital.

The parents of the two "mixed infants" had agreed to abide by the decision of the scientific board and it was understood that they would exchange babies tonight.

In 1927, the most recent year for which figures are available, there were 1661 deaths due to using poisonous drugs by mistake in the United States.

URGES PACKERS BE ALLOWED TO RETAIL PRODUCTS

Advisory Committee Of Farm Board Makes Recommendation

BY LYLE C. WILSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 24—(UP)—Plans of the four big packing companies to add four more bizarrely colored retail stores to the neighborhood business district, where already half a dozen chain stores may be operating, today had gained the support of the Federal Farm Board.

The board's tacit approval of the packers' plea for modification of the 1920 consent decree, which bars them from retail distribution of meats, became known today. The revelation foretold another onslaught from the board's congressional critics.

Recommendation of the board's livestock advisory committee, of which C. A. Ewing of Decatur, Ill., is chairman, were published today. The recommendation for modification of the consent decree was made in the interest of obtaining lower living costs, it was said. The action came at a time when the Justice Department is opposing modification.

Agitation for modification was begun some time ago by the big Senate resolution was introduced by Senator Black, Dem., Ala., asking Attorney General Mitchell's attitude toward the packers' plea.

Mitchell replied he would not pass on the merits of the case, but that the Justice Department would offer all available evidence in court to show the decree should not be modified.

It has been pointed out on the packers' behalf that since the wide growth of chain stores it is possible for chain operators to engage in the packing business in competition with the larger companies, whereas the big packers are prevented from competing in the retail field.

Retail merchants, whose protests against encroachments of the chain store have rivalled the complaints of the farmer in volume, generally look with suspicion upon any move which would add to the number of retail merchants.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kaecher sustained scalp wounds and were rushed to Rochelle where their injuries were dressed. The Kaecher car was also badly damaged and was towed to a Rochelle garage.

"TWO-FACED" CLOCK.

The clock in the bank on the corner was "two faced" this morning; it was 15 minutes of 8 on the side facing the south and 5 minutes of 8 on the west and east sides; therefore a number of arguments in stores and offices, as for instance one young woman went bragging to her desk and said something about "fifteen minutes early," while other workers said she had just gotten in under the tape.

STERLINGITE TO JAIL.

Ira Forrester of Sterling was fined $250 and costs and sentenced to serve a 60-day sentence in the Lee county jail when taken into the county court yesterday afternoon on an information charging him with the operation of a motor vehicle on a public highway in an intoxicated condition. He was reported to have forced a large sedan from the paving east of Sterling and to have been speeding away from the scene of the accident when halted by the state officer.

OHIO MARSHAL'S WIFE FOUND SLAIN IN BERRY PATCH, HEAD AND LIMBS SEVERED FROM BODY: MISSING MONTH

Akron, Ohio, July 24—(UP)—The head and limbs severed and the torso covered over with quicklime, the body of Mrs. Clyde Smith, pretty young wife of Clyde Smith of North Randall, was found in a berry patch near here last night. There was a bullet hole at the base of the skull. Smith identified the body of his wife by means of fillings in her teeth.

Mrs. Smith had been missing from her home since June 16. Her car was found near a cemetery on June 19. There were no marks of a struggle.

Smith, a Marshal, said he had not been worried over disappearance of his wife because she had frequently left home to visit relatives. Clarence Collins, 38, found the body while picking berries just before dusk last evening. The head, limbs and torso were distributed over a radius of several feet and were hidden by one berry bush.

Collins recalled he had seen a car parked in the berry field the night of July 4, but paid no attention to it.

The berry field is on property adjoining the Cleveland boys' industrial farm.

Marshal Smith could ascribe no cause for the murder of his wife. He said he knew of no enemies she had.

1,778 OFFICIALLY REPORTED DEAD BY GOVERNMENT WHICH FEARS FIGURE WILL BE FAR EXCEEDED

Unofficial Reports Of 3,025 Bodies Being Found Credited Thessalonica, July 24—(UP)—A violent cyclone struck northern Italy today. One person was reported killed and fifty injured.

BULLETIN

The region hit was the Mondello Zone, one of the bloodiest spots on the Italian battle front in the world war.

The districts of Vipago, Nervisa and Susegna were the worst afflicted. Militia, firemen and Red Cross workers were sent to the scene from Treviso, where the injured were brought.

(BULLETIN)

Napoli, July 24—(AP)—Government officials this afternoon expressed the fear that the earthquake death list, officially given out at noon as 1778 might be far exceeded as the count progressed. Unofficial reports said 3,025 bodies had been taken from the ruins throughout the devastated territory.

The same report said that the dead in the volcanic crater city of Melfi

"Bad Boys Of Army" Heroes In Emergency

Melfi, Italy, July 24—(AP)—Hardbodied soldiers of the "disciplinary company," stationed here as a penalty for various forms of misconduct, proved themselves tender-hearted heroes in ministering to the injured and terror-stricken inhabitants of this mountain city.

These soldiers, much like the labor battalions of the United States Army, have not slept since they were routed from their barracks shortly after midnight yesterday. The so-called "bad boys of the army" have redeemed themselves a hundred times over by the prodigious work they have performed.

The surviving townsfolk today gave them the warmest praise and their commander moved to recommend for them the King's pardon and restoration to their regular units.

Benevento, Italy, July 24—(UP)—

The full extent of the terrible destruction wrought by yesterday's earthquake in southern Italy began to be made clear today.

One million persons were estimated to be homeless in the stricken region. The casualties could not be estimated accurately, but approximately 3,700 dead were listed in unofficial counts, while the government officially listed 1778 dead and 4264 injured.

The terror of the homeless victims, for whom only brought preliminary relief had as yet been organized, was multiplied by the intermittent shaking of the earth, making them fear fresh disaster.

Two New Shocks

Two new shocks were felt in this region at 9:15 A. M. and 1:15 P. M. today. They were not severe, but strong enough to cause already weakened houses to collapse.

The government was speeding relief by every possible means, but the torn highways, railroads and bridges made communication slow. Medicines, bandages, serums to prevent epidemics, food, clothing and other supplies were urgently needed.

The plight of many of the peasants routed from their homes, was pitiable. The injured lacked proper care, and the living mourned their dead relatives and friends.

Troops, sparsely stationed in the ruined towns to prevent looting and further casualties from tottering walls, were scarcely able to keep frantic men and women from combing the ruins of their homes for lost possessions, or for the bodies of their lost relatives.

Reports Alarming

The reports that came in slowly during the day from isolated centers and the stories of refugees from stricken towns increased rather than minimized the extent of the disaster and indicated that the casualty list would grow rather than decrease.

Refugees from Ariano reported that town of 9000 in ruins and that the few houses remaining would have to be torn down. The dead there were estimated at 310. The cemetery was filled with new dead this morning from the entire region.

Refugees reported deep fissures opened in the earth along the Ofanto river.

Hundreds Homeless

In British Floods
Whitby, Yorkshire, England, July 24—(AP)—Hundreds of persons were homeless and destitute as a result of the flood which devastated the valley of the Esk river.
The waters which rushed over the area following a terrific cloudburst had almost subsided today, but rain was still falling for the fourth successive day, making the task of relief workers much more difficult.
A journey over the territory along the Esk between Rursarp and Sleights showed what havoc the sudden torrent had wrought small bungalows, scores of rowboats and lengths of stout fencing were piled high upon hedges, while great trees of the picturesque countryside were uprooted.

WINDOW SMASHED.

The heavy plate glass window in the front of Mrs. Carnes Good East Shop on Hennepin avenue was shattered to bits at noon today, due to the activity of a reckless auto driver, who sped away from the scene and was captured on Dixon Avenue by a motorcyclist, who followed and brought him back to the police station. Clyde Smith, aged 16, who resides west of Dixon, attempted to park his car on the west side of Hennepin avenue south of First street and in so doing struck a delivery truck belonging to the City Market.

The force of the impact was sufficient to send the delivery truck hurdling back over the sidewalk and it crashed into the large plate glass window of the restaurant where several persons were partaking of their noon day meal. Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber preferred a charge of leaving the scene of an accident against Smith when he was arraigned before Justice Grove W. Gehart in police court, and he was ordered to report this evening.

1,778 OFFICIALLY
REPORTED DEAD
BY GOVERNMENT

Benevento, Italy, July 24—(UP)—South-Central Italy was crushed to death beneath the dust and debris of cities and towns in five once-flourishing provinces.

In the ruins of these towns, flattened by yesterday's earthquake, were believed to lie the bodies of more than 3,600 persons, victims of what may prove to be Italy's most appalling disaster since the Messina tragedy of 1908.

Two thirds of the population of Villanova-Albanese, two days ago a town of 2,000, have vanished. That is an estimate, but the estimate is borne out by soldier-relief workers, digging over the ruins, uncovering the crushed bodies of hundreds, and giving them hasty burial in common graves.

No Method of Checking
There is no possible method of checking the numbers of dead, every public building, and with it every record and tally of the inhabitants, is destroyed. The work of burial is necessarily fast, and identification of the bodies almost impossible.

The suburbs of Villanova, in particular that of Villanova del Battista, suffered even more complete devastation than the main section of the town. That suburb actually exists no more. It is gone—swallowed up or ground to bits in the jaws of the earthquake.

Villanova is situated on the top of a peak, dominating this province. From its summit one has a sorrowfully impressive view, for miles in every direction, of the devastation and desolation.

In many respects, the horror of the scene in Villanova do not center around the burial ground towards which the long streams of stretcher bearers walk. They reach their height in the long lines of grievously injured inhabitants, lying on home-made stretchers in torture while they await motor trucks to take them to Avellino or Benevento for such treatment as can be given.

Buildings in Ruins
Every building in Villanova is in ruins. Roofs are crushed in and walls have fallen. Those that remain standing lean perilously, and are cracked. The entire roof of the town is unsafe.

And yet, as the sole gathering place in which they might hope to find refuge, little knots of peasants who survived through some strange circumstance, gathered at the ruined church to lament their relatives.

Owing to the fact that Villanova is isolated from the remainder of the province, and because the temblor severed every line of communication, the early reports of the tragedy failed to give the authorities any hint as to its extent.

In the stricken area just south of Benevento, and in Ariano and surrounding villages, the death toll is estimated at 300, with a similar toll at Montecavallo-Irpinio, half of which is completely destroyed.

The recording of death totals is made difficult through the utter impossibility of locating families which have disappeared without a trace, therefore there are various estimates of the deaths everywhere.

Center of Relief
Benevento is the center of relief activity, all supplies are sent on requisition of the Prefect, from this town. All automobiles and omnibuses have been impressed into service, as ambulances to convey wounded to temporary hospitals, or as food supply wagons, forcing their way over almost impassable roads, to stricken towns miles away.

Throughout the day there was an almost war-time traffic along the route from Ariano and Montecavallo to Benevento.

No endeavor has been made to estimate the property damage. All that can be said is that it will amount to millions, but Italy is too busy rescuing the wounded and giving burial to the dead to think in terms of physical property.

Attempts to proceed with rescue work at Melfi, which was the apparent epicenter of the earthquake, were hampered by the destruction of roads and bridges leading to that city.

With daylight today the relief work speeded up and was rapidly being systematized. Residents of those fortunate towns that escaped the earthquake's thrust poured into the shattered villages to aid the soldiers and Red Cross workers in tearing away the ruins, evacuating the dead, and rescuing sufferers from imprisonment beneath crumbling walls.

MISSIONARIES

ZONE RESCUEDForty-Four Brought To Safety Between Two
Opposing Armies

Poochow, China, July 24—(AP)—Twenty-one American and twenty-three British missionaries marooned in the Chinese war zone, were rescued and brought here last night.

Shanghai, July 24—(AP)—A launch flying the American and British colors brought to safety the group of British and American missionary workers in the Min river valley.

Leaders of the warring factions through whose lines the rescue launch traveled assisted British and American authorities and the boat was not molested on its trip from Yenching to Poochow.

Although the names of those evacuated were not known here it was learned 21 Americans were in the valley two months ago. Most of these represented the Methodist Episcopal Mission, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Among the group arriving at Poochow were the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Bankhardt, Berea, Ohio; the Misses Mary Elide of Des Moines, Ia., Fern Sinker, Centerberg, Ohio, and Mae Baucher, an American, home address unknown. All were stationed at Yenching.

From Kutien, 50 miles east of Yenching, the Misses Eva Sprunger, Berne, Indiana, Myrtle Smith, Iron Mountain, Mich., and Martha Graf, a naturalized American from Switzerland. From Mintzing, 40 miles west of Poochow, were the Misses Lydia Trimble, Sioux City, Iowa, and Florence Plumb, Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Skinner of Topeka, Kansas, and Miss Mamie Glassburner of Woodbine, Iowa, remained at Yenching where the Methodist Mission hospital was filled with wounded Chinese soldiers.

Estranged Husband
Shot Wife and Self

DeWitt, Ia., July 24—(AP)—Mrs. Minnie Hinrichs, 21, was near death at Clinton Hospital today following the double shooting last night in which she was shot by her husband, William Hinrichs, 35, who later killed himself.

Hinrichs came to this country eight years ago from Germany, he returned in February to get married, and brought his wife back with him to DeWitt. The couple separated two months ago and Mrs. Hinrichs went to live with Hinrichs' step-father, Henry Witt.

The husband pleaded for her return to him but she said that she gave a definite refusal last Saturday. Late last night Hinrichs went to the Witt home where Mrs. Hinrichs was sitting in the kitchen. The man was said to have crept to the kitchen door and fired at his wife. Hinrichs then drove to Eldridge, where he shot himself in the head.

Execution Of Three
Negroes Postponed

Chicago, July 24—(UP)—The triple execution scheduled for Friday was postponed today, when two of the three Negroes who were to have been electrocuted obtained stays, and the third was promised similar action.

Insanity petitions brought the respite. Lafon Fisher will get a hearing August 7 and Leon Brown's was set for August 11.

Judge Walter Steffens, who granted the hearings, indicated he would allow a similar step for Leonard Shadow. The three Negroes were convicted of murdering Martin French, a bank guard, Jan. 18, 1929.

Fifty-five food canning factories will be erected by Soviet Russia at a cost of 35,000,000.

SEEK TO SHOW
ANNOUNCER IN
EXTORTION PLOTDetroit Police Probe
Murder Of "Jerry"
Buckley There

Detroit, July 24—(AP)—While poor people who considered "Jerry" Buckley their champion today, were contributing funds to blanket his casket with flowers, police said they had in their possession an affidavit purporting to show that the radio announcer who fell before a rain of bullets early yesterday was extorting money from bootleggers.

Buckley was political commentator for station WMBC and had taken an active part in the successful campaign to recall Mayor Charles Bowles. He was slain in the lobby of the LaSalle Hotel, where he lived and in which the radio station is located, two and a half hours after he had made the announcement that the Mayor had been called from office in Tuesday's special election.

His brother, Paul, former assistant prosecutor, declared "Jerry's" activities for the recall was the "sole reason" for the slaying. Police advanced other theories—that he had made gangland enemies through his attacks on gamblers, that he was witness of a gang slaying, that he might have been extorting money from gamblers and bootleggers.

"Jerry" Buckley championed the cause of the unemployed last winter when thousands were in distress. He broadcast pleas for aid, directed programs of cheer to them and, according to intimate friends, spent all his savings in responding to personal requests for money.

The reward offered for the capture and conviction of Buckley's slayers was increased to $7,500 today by the offer of $2500 by the Detroit Times.

The council yesterday offered a reward of $5,000 while James E. Chenot, Prosecuting Attorney, plans to ask the Board of County Auditors to post an additional reward of another $5,000.

Ninety seven men were arrested and questioned by police last night in a drive against gangsters. They were taken into custody at a miniature golf course.

Robert Oakman, 70-year-old millionaire builder and politician, came to the defense today of the slain radio announcer.

Oakman, found by reporters cruising on his yacht in Canadian waters, denounced characterizations of Buckley as a racketeer and blackmailer and called him a sincere foe of the underworld interests he opposed in his talks from station WMBC.

He called statements of the Police Commissioner and others, linking Buckley with underworld activities and representing him as receiving money from crooks, "shameful innuendo against a man who bore on his breast the weight of a fight for a clean city."

Thirty-Six Victims
Of Disaster Buried

Coblentz, Germany, July 24—(AP)—Thirty-six victims of Tuesday's tragic bridge collapse were buried last night while all the Rhineland mourned.

A procession of thousands escorted the bodies over the old Moselle bridge into Lutetia, where funeral services were held in Turner hall. The coffins were placed in one long row, those containing the six child victims in the center.

The bridge collapse brought a tragic end to a celebration of the recent evacuation of the Rhineland by French troops. A crowd estimated up to 150 was on the bridge, a flimsy pontoon structure over an estuary of the Moselle river, watching fireworks. The structure gave way suddenly, pitching all into the water. It is expected other bodies will be recovered later.

Serious Floods In India Are Reported

Karachi, India, July 24—(UP)—Serious floods were spreading through the Upper Sind today.

Shikapur and Larkana were evacuated Wednesday night and when alarming breaks occurred in the banks of the Indus and adjoining canals.

Karachi was partly flooded. All telegraph service to the interior has been suspended since 1 A. M. because of damage to the main cables. Crops were damaged to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Three relief trains crowded with refugees arrived here today. The flooded condition of this city makes it impossible to house many more, but they keep coming.

More than six inches of rain fell here in the last 24 hours. The streets were impassable and dotted with stranded automobiles and trucks.

For the month of January, 1930, the U. S. government collected taxes on 10,208,231,773 cigarettes, a gain of 48,000,000 over the previous January.

FAMOUS "HOBO"
GIVEN FUNERAL
IN RICH CHURCHJames Eads How Rites At All Souls Church In Washington, D. C.

Washington, July 24—(UP)—James Eads How, famous "Millionaire Hobo," reached the end of the trail here today with cremation of his body to follow funeral services at All Souls Unitarian church.

Rev. Robert B. Day, who attended the same Unitarian Theological Seminary where How studied before he began his eccentric career, officiated at the final rites. The late William Howard Taft worshipped at the All Souls church and his funeral services were held there.

Cincinnati, O., July 24—(UP)—The hobo world will be in mourning 30 days for James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," Jeff Davis announced here today.

"Of course we own no flags to lower, but the boys will be sober and thoughtful in grief for a great guy," said Jeff, who is known as "Hobo King."

How, who had $500,000 but died of pneumonia induced by starvation, set his affairs in order before he went. He placed his estate in the hands of three trustees.

The trustees are Nicholas Klein, Cincinnati attorney; Herman Gaul, who runs the "Hotel de Gink" at Chicago; and Barney Haughey, Denver attorney.

The trustees must administer his estate for the good of the underprivileged worker. How left the method to their discretion.

Luxurious Funeral
The funeral itself will be in contrast to How's tastes in life. His body is to be taken to the fashionable All Souls' Unitarian church in Washington for the last rites. His relatives, the Hows and Eads of St. Louis, provided him in 1921 the luxury he had scorned in life.

Klein admitted the trustees may have some difficulty in carrying out How's desire to educate and better hoboes.

Last week How arrived in Cincinnati penniless and faint. He murmured the name of Nick Klein, his friend, when found near collapse in a railway station.

Klein took him home and gave him food. He

MY NEIGHBOR'S GARDEN

My neighbor planted a garden, with roses of every hue, with poppies in scarlet and amber, Gold lilies, and larkspur blue.

From my window above the garden As the picture of loveliness grows, I humbly give thanks to the gardener, Who so patiently weeds and sows.

I love my neighbor's garden, With its gold and scarlet and blue, Its fragrance fills my quiet room, Where I do gardening, too.

Have You Heard?

You can make your self an original and lovely crownless beach hat for little cost, in the following manner:

Cut a cartwheel circle of natural colored buckram, scallop the outer edge, bind it in the color of your bathing suit and paint a plaid, checkered, striped or floral pattern on its upper side.

Then, very carefully, cut just enough of a hole in the center to slip onto your head and bind it too. There is no crown to be made, because you slip this cartwheel over your bathing head or scarf, wear it well back on the head, off the forehead, and behold, you have an original bandeau hat, bright, in the colors of your suit, extremely chic and becoming.

The Home Maker As Wage Earner

BY MARY V. ROBINSON
Director of the Division of Public Information

Uncle Sam when looking into questions pertaining to women workers keeps one eye on their jobs and one eye on their homes. For the home is the core of the Nation and woman is the core of the home.

Through his experts in the Women's Bureau he tries to find out not only what the job means to women and what women mean to the job, but what kind of responsibilities the home brings to women and what effect women's outside work has on the home.

Close-up pictures of the family problems of wage-earning women are obtained through visits to their homes by bureau agents. These personal interviews form an important part of practically every major survey of the bureau and furnish human interest to color the statistical data gathered from places of employment.

The Women's Bureau is aiming not to draw women into paid jobs but to safeguard the interests of those cast breadwinners. It is equipped to give by circumstances for the role of information not on how to work out balanced menus but on how to maintain the right balance between the home and the job; not on the best way to plan a family budget but on the contributions of women to the family exchequer. In short, the bureau is concerned not with the art and domestic science of home making, which come within the scope of another one of Uncle Sam's bureaus, but with the laying and preserving of the corner stones of the home—women's time, money, energy and health, all so essential for home building.

Women's time is needed to make the home a success, but often they must take some hours from the domestic domain for the outside job to make the home a possibility. The Women's Bureau aims to keep such remunerative work from encroaching too much on the precious span required for personal pursuits, by advocating the following hour standards for women's employment, a day of not more than 8 hours, at least one and one half days off from the job weekly, no night work.

The great bulk of women wage earners are not trying through outside employment to escape household drudgery but are performing domestic duties before and after their paid jobs. Of 112,000 women in industry whose living condition was reported in 17 state studies, almost nine-tenths were living at home or with relatives. It is safe to assert that the vast majority of these were entirely or partly responsible for the running of the home.

In urging fair pay for women—a wage based on occupation not on sex, a minimum rate to cover the cost of living for dependents and not merely for the individual—the bureau realizes women's financial obligations to home and family. One of its recent bulletins points out that of approximately 60,000 women who reported on their share in family support, more than half each week deposited the whole pay envelope into the family purse. Almost two fifths more merged part of their earnings with the family income, less than a tenth contributing nothing.

Other bureau standards designed to guard undue fatigue and to prevent the breadwinning routine from making too great inroads on women's energies, of such vital importance in the more strictly feminine functions of home making and child bearing, are: two ten-minute rest periods daily; a clean, well-aired, well-ventilated workroom; a comfortable chair adjusted to worker and job, with elimination of constant standing and constant sitting wherever possible; mechanical devices to prevent unnecessary and repeated lifting of heavy weights.

Further measures urged by the bureau, essential to the welfare of wage-earning home makers, are the following recommendations in the name of health and safety; guarded machinery, protection against industrial poisons, sanitary service facilities including enough time and a clean comfortable place for lunch, pure and accessible drinking water with individual cups or sanitary fountains, convenient washing facilities with hot and cold water, soap, and individual towels, standard toilet equipment in the ratio of one installation for every 15 women, dressing and rest rooms, a carefully supervised first aid program.

Where work places fail to measure up to such standards women become victims of accident and disease, and the home called on to provide for injured and ill workers is unnecessarily burdened and often menaced with the possible spread of disease.

Many women go outside the home to work in through their earnings to make living within the home better.

Instinctive with women is the job of home making, which most of those classed as wage earners are not shirking in reality nor prospect but are either linking with breadwinning activities or looking forward to as a future vocation. Home making is for women a brightly shining trust, and the Women's Bureau through its policies and program is trying to preserve it from tarnish and rust.

How Well Can You Can?

If you can can, and can can as well as you think you can, then you have a chance to prove yourself the best canner in the United States by entering the Household Science Institute's canning contest to be held in Shenandoah, Ia., this year. Can something, send it to the contest quarters before October 1, and you may win first prize of $600. Dr. Louise Stanley, right, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Grace Viall Gray, food expert, are examining some entries above.

"Mother, I hate that picture in the hall. I wish you'd take it down."

"What? Why, that's a fine engraving of the Battle of Gettysburg. You don't know a good picture when you see it, child."

"Maybe not, but I know an ugly one. Maybe it isn't ugly but it's awful having to look on all those soldiers getting killed and dead horses and everything. And that black frame around it gives me the creeps. It doesn't seem to go with all the bright things we have. Won't you take it upstairs someplace?"

"Well—I'll think about it. But I don't know what your grandfather would think if he was alive. He fought in that battle and he said it was worse than the picture. I suppose, though, if he thought it would make you unhappy, he wouldn't mind. I'll ask your father."

"Then it's settled. He'll say no." "Why?"

"Oh, he just thinks I'm a kid and don't know anything."

Really Out of Place Janet's mother was thoughtful. She walked into the hall and looked at the picture, then she looked around. The child was right. It was no setting for such a grim reminder. But there was Charles—he'd say we shouldn't forget struggles that cost our country so dearly. But then history was full of struggles, and we couldn't paint our walls with them, and sit thinking over a terrible past while we were trying to plan for a future.

"Janet, go and call Leah. Maybe the three of us can get it down. It's pretty heavy."

The Battle of Gettysburg was put in the store room until another place could be thought up for it. The wall was dusted, but nothing was put in its place lest Charles raise the roof and the erstwhile mural would have to be restored to grace.

Charles didn't say a word about the missing picture that night, nor the next day nor the next. For a solid month he walked past the stark area without a comment. Then one day he looked for some place to tuck a memorandum. The old picture had held many a communication, and there was no pace to stick it.

"Where's the Battle of Gettysburg?"

"Upstairs."

"Winning A Vote 'It's a valuable picture. I missed it right away.'"

"You didn't. You've walked past this place a hundred times and never noticed it was gone. I'll tell you the truth, Janet doesn't like it. I moved it to please her."

"Janet! She's just a kid. She doesn't know anything."

"Children do know things and I think she has a right to an opinion in the house. She's only 11 but we've got to begin to think of her as a person, not as a piece of furniture."

"I guess that's what you call self-expression. But you're right. Give her a vote. I agree. When I come to think of it, I call it a darn good idea. But I just hope she won't begin to criticize my ties and correct my manners."

"That," said his wife, "shall be firmly sat on."

French Woman Athlete Refuses to Wear Skirts

Paris, July 24—(UP)—Violette Morris, France's famous sportswoman who was recently deprived of her athletic license by the feminine federation who disapproved of her trousers, close-cropped head, flat chest and actions in general denies that she will ever wear skirts to regain the license.

"They had reported that I had gone back to skirts," she told the United Press when visited in her garage in Paris, "but you see I haven't." She pulled back her linen ulster and disclosed a blue serge suit and heavy cord shoes like a man wears.

"I am sorry to have lost the license, because now I can't play football, but I shall probably receive it again. The president of the Feminine Federation who started all this trouble has been put out of the society too—so we shall see."

Many people thought that Violette had lost her automobile license, as well and would be deprived of the right to race, but recently ETAINU right to race, but she still has that privilege and recently entered a contest whose only other participants were men, coming out fifth.

In 1927 this woman made Paris auto followers sit up and take notice by winning the Bol d'Or event, being the only woman entered.

Today she sells auto accessories when not racing or participating in men's sports. A man came into the shop while she was being interviewed. "Ah, my one one," she addressed him after the manner of French workmen to one another, "you won't be able to buy a better paten than that, and I'll throw in two tool boxes if I'm wrong."

Violette's hands, while not as large as most men's are covered with heavy rings—the sort a boy wears. She holds a cigarette between her lips while she talks and works, and she slaps her assistant, Madeleine Margot Patouillet, champion high-jumper of France, on the back as one man would slap another.

On the twentieth of July she will race at Dieppe in an attempt to regain her old supremacy among auto fans, but to accomplish the same feat among feminists she will never compete—if it means going back to skirts.

MEXICANS TAKE TO THE AIR.

Air-mindedness is a term which is being overworked and is being discarded in some conservative circles, but it might be well to use it again when describing the Mexican attitude toward aviation. Ray Cooper, manager of the aircraft bureau of the Detroit Board of Commerce, says that Mexicans, from the aristocracy down to the lowest peons, are minded to board a plane whenever they can raise the necessary money, and that they seem to have no fear at all.

The Corporation Aeronautica de Transportes, S. A., commonly called the C. A. T. by those who have difficulty with Spanish, has undertaken an ambitious program of development in Mexico, and because Mexico is the home of only one airplane manufacturing concern it is quite likely that C. A.
T. will turn to the United States for much material. About 10,000 miles of airways are flown each day in the southern republic. The C. A. T. operates about 4500 miles, the Pan-American lines about 2417 miles and all other lines operate the remainder of the total.

The C. A. T. operates the longest line—from El Paso, Tex., to Mexico City, a distance of about 1000 miles. Stops are made at Chihuahua, Torreon, Zacatecas, Aguas Calientes and Leon in the order named, traveling southward, and the people are aviation fans. Mexico is not a land inhabited solely by half-starved Indian half-breeds. The country has thousands of persons who fly by habit, and can afford to do so, even though it costs twice as much there as in the United States.

American-made airplanes dominated the aircraft show recently held at Mexico City, and on the last Sunday of the exposition there were 25,000 paid admissions. Those who couldn't pay for tickets viewed the exhibits from tops of freight cars at the edge of the field.

The United States pioneered in aviation and we have advertised the crashes as thoroughly as we have the successful flights—more so, perhaps. We passed through the trying times when the early fliers refused to take off at the slightest indication of a disturbance in the ozone. We saw many noble pioneers sacrifice lives to the new art. Any new science claims its victims. We saw, further, too many dare-devils sacrifice their lives to provide thrills for mobs at fairs.
We have developed a natural caution which has led to increased safety in flying.

TEACHING SURGERY BY PICTURE.

Motion pictures of surgical operations have been used to some extent. Now comes the picture accompanied by the lecture from the surgeon. The medical college of Columbia university has prepared the first one. Possibilities in this line now seems to be without end.

First far-reaching effect is in the feasibility of use of the demonstration in any school in the land. How simple has become the interchange of lectures. Without the recording instrument, the operation and accompanying lecture passed in a moment. Renewal was possible only by a similar surgical case. Now it may be preserved, and whatever benefits lie in it may be passed on from school to school and from decade to decade.

That is the surgical case and lecture. It is only the beginning. One may permit his mind to range as it will on the subject of instruction by motion picture and accompanying lecture from a record, and not go far beyond possibilities.
Changes in methods of instruction are ahead.

The new prohibition administrator for New York says the city can be made as dry as any other city in the country. By which we don't know whether he intends to change things or not.

While prohibition is being discussed in most of the other cities of the country, New York, with 32,000 speakeasies merely is sitting tight.

New York has a new drink made with nuts. Quite a few of the speakeasies are serving "nut" drinks too.

The endurance flight was staged to advertise the City of Chicago. Somehow we fail to see the need.

Detroit lawyers voted 914 to 189 in favor of repealing the prohibition amendment. That's at least one argument for prohibition.

It is customary to review briefly the deeds of Congress as

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

The trip to Bagdad was real slow. Of course the small mules couldn't go much faster than a lazy walk, but everyone had fun. When they had been upon their way for hours, the Travel Man said, "Say! I think we'd best camp out before the sinking of the sun."

"When night comes, we'll all turn in and then at dawn we will begin another of our long trips. Let's find a camping spot." So down the road a mile or two they found a spot that would just do. They knew it would be comfortable. It wasn't one bit hot.

Some small pup-tents the mule man had were soon unpacked. The bunch was glad to help him pitch them on the ground and set up quite a camp. When Scouty crawled right into one, we Clowny had to have some fun. He pulled a rope and let the tent go down. My what a scam!

For several days they camped and slept, but all the time they slowly kept right on their way towards Bagdad. Then their journey reached its end. A hotel roof was shortly found with beds where they could all sleep sound. The Times thanked the Travel Man. On him they could depend.

He always worked things out just right and my, how they all slept that night. 'Twas cool away up on the roof and such a new treat, too. Said Scouty, loudly, "This is rare to snooze out in the sky-high air." And so they slept till dawn and then they

PALMYRA

Palmyra—Howard Rundell motored to Milledgeville Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hanna. The boys spent a good part of the day in the waters of Ekhorn creek. Bathing came from Chadwick and Lanark to find relief from the extreme heat.

Miss Martha LeFever was taken to the Sterling hospital Saturday for an X-ray examination after which it was found necessary to operate immediately for removal of gall bladder and appendix. A serious operation if the patient is in good condition, and much more so when the patient is in a weakened condition as was Miss LeFever from a weeks illness. She was not so well Monday morning but her friends hope for a better report soon.

Harry Frederick of Palmyra threshed wheat Monday with a yield of 38 bushels per acre. A very good yield considering the dry weather.

ALEXANDRE DUMAS
On July 24, 1802, Alexandre Dumas the greatest French romantic novelist and the greatest storyteller of the world, was born at Villers-Cotterets.

Dumas was the grandson of the Marquis Alexandre Davy de la Pailleterie and a Negress, both of Haiti.

Dumas inclined at first to law and was apprenticed to a notary of Soissons where he saw a play that determined him to seek his fortune on the stage.

He was, at one time, a secretary in the household of Louis Philippe.

Although his best work was almost all done between 1843 and 1850, in one way or another Dumas is responsible for 298 closely printed novels.

At the last came four years of somewhat senile poverty, relieved by the son whose boyhood he had neglected and whose youth he had misguided.

He died on Dec. 5, 1870.

W. A. KELLY, EDITOR OF THE WEST FRANKFORD (ILL.) AMERICAN, SAYS:

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Not only is this true with a man, but also with a nation. What greater influence in the nation than its press? Then what a responsibility that the press of the nation shall refrain from sowing seeds of discord, of disloyalty and of selfishness.

"If the sacrifice of his life made by Alfred J. Lingle to the Chicago cutlows shall awaken the press of the nation to the horrorfulness of the seed that has been sown in disrespect for law, disrespect for Christianity, disrespect for the churches of the land and the inspirational pastors of the churches, then his life will not have been given in vain.

"God is not mocked," no press, no man and no people can mock God and prosper for 'as a man sows, so shall he also reap."

RADIO NETWORK IS ASSURED FOR CHICAGO RACES

Short Wave System Will Enable Observers to Report Big Aerial Derby

BY JAMES C. AUSTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago—(UP)—An elaborate system of short wave radio stations will be installed to facilitate handling the 44 events and the five derbies which comprise the 10-day meet of the 1930 National Air Races, to be held at Curtiss-Reynolds airport beginning August 23.

The communication system was made possible through efforts of the Chicago Radiophone club, co-operating with the Chicago Amateur Radio Council.

An 80-meter transmitter and receiver will be placed at each of the three pylons which designate the route of the five mile triangular closed course. Operators at these points will be in instantaneous communication with officials at the race depot to report the progress of the events.

Stations of 150 meter wave length will be used at the net control station in the air depot, at the starter's post, and in the field manager's car.

A more powerful net control station in the administration building is being considered, present plans providing for direct communication by code with Elgin airport. All derby entrants are scheduled to stop at Elgin before ending their flights at Chicago, and the moment of their departure will be relayed to the airport, in order that the field may be cleared for derby arrivals.

Radio equipment manufacturers, race officials said, have tentatively agreed to lend equipment. Should this prove impossible, club members sponsoring the installation will use equipment from their own stations.

The installation, which will be under the executive direction of Lewis Havlatko, will be completed by August 10, in order to permit two weeks of testing before the Olympiad of the air opens.

Spain Raises Its Tariff: U. S. Is Hit

Madrid, July 23—(AP)—The government today published a new tariff schedule which increases the duties on numerous American imports, principally automobiles, sewing machines, bicycles, motorcycles, pneumatic tires, razor blades, silk and hams.

The increase was announced as a move to stabilize Spanish currency and not in any way a reprisal against the increased American tariff.

The automobile duty is doubled on an average and there are numerous classifications according to weight. The lightest cars are more than doubled in duty while the heavier cars are about doubled. Tires and casings are from about 33 1/2 to 50 per cent increased while motorcycles are almost doubled.

ANOTHER JOLIET LADY TELLS WHAT KONJOLA DID

"Hoping to Assist Others in Finding Health, I Endorse this Splendid Medicine," She Says.

MRS. ANNA MAXWELL.

"About seven years ago, I began to suffer from kidney and liver trouble," said Mrs. Anna Maxwell, 308 Chase avenue, Joliet. "Later I became constipated and nervous and the dreadful pains across my back were almost unbearable. I had to arise frequently during the night and the inflamed condition of my bladder caused great pain and suffering. I often had sickening dizzy spells and black spots appeared before my eyes. I was continually taking laxatives."

"I read an endorsement of Konjola given by a friend and after taking a few bottles of this medicine my health is so improved that I wish to pass the word along. I no longer have those terrible dizzy spells, my kidneys and bladder works normally and the pains have just about disappeared from my back. Konjola has regulated my bowels and my nerves have been quieted. I now sleep well at night. Hoping to assist others in finding health, I endorse this splendid medicine."

"Taken over a period of from five to eight weeks, Konjola has made an incomparable record in the relief of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness."

"Konjola is sold and recommended by all the better drug stores in Dixon, Ill., and throughout this section."—Adv.

Two Trans-Pacific Flights Are Near

Tacoma, Wash., July 23—(AP)—The zero hour drew near today for starting of two projected airplane flights from Tacoma to Tokyo.

Lieut. Harold Bromley, thrice thwarted in attempted to make the trans-Pacific flight, said he would be ready to start his new plane "City of Tacoma" after tomorrow on receipt of favorable weather reports.

Robert B. Wark, Bromley's rival, announced he would be ready to take off Friday morning. Bromley and Wark have denied any intention of racing each other to Tokyo, but their flight plans have been going ahead neck and neck.

Bromley and his co-pilot, Harold Gatty, last night began installing a gyroscopic instrument for blind flying.

Bromley expects to stop somewhere in Alaska to refuel. Wark plans a non-stop flight with a refueling somewhere over Alaska or the Aleutian Islands.

"The Phantom Rider" Is Believed Rustler

Wheatland, Wyo., July 23—(AP)—Death threats signed "The Phantom Rider" received by several Fletcher Park ranchers has added to the uneasiness spread by the recent appearance of a masked horseman who rides the rugged Laramie peaks on a snow white horse.

Five men and a woman are reported to have received the letters which were placed in the hands of officers seeking the "Phantom Rider" who recently rode in the yard of Charles Adams, 20, and shot the rancher through the shoulder.

Posses searched the hills following the attack but were unable to apprehend the mysterious horseman who previously visited several Fletcher Park ranches and ordered their owners to leave the country at once.

Authorities believe the horseman is connected with recent cases of cattle rustling.

ABE MARTIN

"I put some more to it an' had a windshield wiper put on my car," said Farmer Jake Bentley, when Labe Bud asked him what he did with all the money he made in 1929. Well, anyhow, there's no excuse fer marryin' a weak-kneed girl.

Wales Is Forced To Cancel Engagement

London, July 23—(AP)—For the first time on record the Prince of Wales today was forced to cancel an official engagement because of weather conditions.

Weather reports from Wales this morning indicated flying conditions were impossible and the Prince cancelled an airplane flight which he had intended making from London to Carnarvon to open the Royal Welch agricultural show. As it was impossible to reach Carnarvon from London by train in time for the opening the whole engagement was abandoned.

Mother Of Five Is Accused Of Murder

Charlotte, N. C., July 23—(UP)—Mrs. P. F. Butler of Belmont, mother of five children, faced grand jury action today on the charge of beating Miss Grace Whitaker to death with a horsewhip.

Mrs. Butler accused the girl of being intimate with the husband. Miss Whitaker died in the Presbyterian hospital here several days after the attack.

Aged Woodmen Drop Injunction Action

Springfield, Ill., July 23—(AP)—After fighting for many months to prevent the head officers of the Modern Woodmen of America from putting into effect on July 31, the current cost plan of life insurance affecting members of the order 70 or more years old, attorneys for the aged members this morning dismissed the suit in circuit court here.

No explanation of the dismissal, which came as a surprise to opposing attorneys, was given by Attorney Leslie G. Pefferle representing four Springfield men who brought the suit.

The veteran members of the order in the court sought to have the Head camp enjoined from putting the rates into effect until a complete hearing could be had on the merits of the case.

Attorneys for the aged Woodmen argued that all members past 70 years of age had a credit on the books of the order and that this credit should be applied to dues until it was exhausted.

Nurses will find Record Sheets at the B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Moline Aviator Is Second In Air Derby

Little Rock, Ark., July 23—(UP)—Lee Gahlbach of Detroit, pilot of the Little Rock entry in the All-American air derby, led the field of pilots on the fourth lap when he landed here at 11:56 A. M. today.

Gahlbach encountered a strong headwind on his flight from Cincinnati, today's starting point. He completed the lap in three hours and 56 minutes flying time.

"Stub" Quincy of Moline was second to land, the flier roaring over the finish line at 12:17 o'clock with an elapsed flying time of four hours, 12 minutes and 35 seconds.

J. R. Weddell, New Orleans flier, landed third. His official landing time was 12:22:47 P. M.

Neither Sapru nor Jayakar would make a statement when they left the prison.

The two men recently obtained permission from Viceroy Irwin to visit Gandhi in the hope of arranging some kind of a compromise which would permit peace to be restored in India.

Two Children Killed By Dynamite Blast

Barnesboro, Pa., July 23—(AP)—Two children were killed and their mother injured early today in the explosion of a charge of dynamite believed set by the father of the children as a result of differences with his wife.

Chicago—Blue Larkspur, one of the greatest money winning horses of all time probably will be retired permanently from the track, it was announced today. The famous son of Black Servant-Blossom Time injured his left fore leg at Arlington Park yesterday in a workout.

Chicago—The body of Paddy Harmon, the midwest's leading sports promoter, was taken today to Chicago Stadium where it will lie in state until funeral services Saturday. Harmon, who was the guiding genius in the construction of the $7,000,000 stadium, was killed in an automobile accident Tuesday.

Chicago—Fidel La Barba and Earl Mastro, contenders of the weather-weight championship, will meet in a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium on August 7. Promoter Sammy Wolff announced today.

Manchester-By-The-Sea, Mass.—With the four highest seeded entries among the spectators, semifinals of the annual Essex Country Club women's invitation singles tennis championship here to be played here today.

Marjorie Gladman of Santa Monica, Calif., was to meet Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Calif., in one of the matches, while Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, only eastern survivor, was to oppose Dorothy Weisel of Sacramento, Calif. in the other contest.

Sarah Palfrey of Dedham and Mary Greef of Kansas City, Mo., members of the 1930 American Wightman Cup team, were eliminated yesterday by Miss Gladman and Anne Palfrey respectively, another upset yesterday was that in which Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of San Francisco was defeated by Josephine Cruickshank. On Tuesday, Edith Cross of San Francisco, first seeded player and ranked third nationally, was beaten by Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia—Numerous revisions in major league records were necessary today following the slugging exhibition staged by the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Phillies in the second game of a double-header at Baker Bowl yesterday.

Thirteen innings were necessary to decide the contest, which required 3 hours and 41 minutes of playing time—the longest game on record with the exception of a 26 inning game which lasted for 3 hours and 50 minutes.

Pittsburgh won, 15 to 13, after the two teams had established new all-time records for the number of times at bat and total bases in a single game, tied the record for assists and came within one of equalling the established marks for total hits, total extra base hits, and number of pitches.

New York—Primo Carnera and his retinue of managers today faced the task of convincing United States immigration authorities and the Department of Labor that his boxing tour was a "legitimate visit" and not a "commercial enterprise."

Primo, according to announcement by his American manager, Billy Duffy has been granted a 20-day postponement of the deportation with which immigration authorities had threatened him.

Immigration authorities are represented as refusing to consider Carnera's extension of his visit unless he can produce evidence that his conduct in this country has been more exemplary than its public notices have implied.

Primo and his manager, Leon See, returned to New York last night and denied that they attempted to enter Canada yesterday.

Carnera was scheduled for an

Baseball Gossip

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Whoever it was that said "youth must prevail" probably would be inclined to retract that statement if he should look at the major league box scores these days. The ancients of the pitching brigade have done just about as much prevailing as the youngsters and often in a more convincing manner.

Five moundsmen whose combined ages total approximately 200 years, went out to toil yesterday and while only one pitched a complete game, nearly all of them turned in good pitching performances. Adolfo Luque, Cuba's leading baseball hero, age 39, made first place in the National League safe for the Brooklyn Robins. Luque held the St. Louis Cardinals to five hits through a trying duel with Sylvester Johnson while Brooklyn gathered enough momentum to win, 4 to 1. Most of the time Luque had only a one run lead and it was not until the Cards had tied the count in the seventh that the Robins started hitting.

The Robins' gain was made possible by their neighbors, the New York Giants, who downed the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 6, to put Brooklyn a full game plus a few odd points in the lead. The pitching in this contest was a matter of numbers rather than skill. Chicago using five hurlers and New York four, and the wildness of the Cub throwers was the principal reason for the Giants' rally in the fifth which decided the game.

Along with Luque, ancient Jack Quinn of the Philadelphia Athletics, whose years number somewhere near 45, gave the younger pitchers a lesson. Quinn had a little trouble in the ninth and George Earnshaw finished the game as the A's downed Detroit 4 to 1, but in his eight innings Quinn allowed only five hits.

Urban "Red" Faber, second in age to Quinn in this quintet, did not figure as a winner or loser for the Chicago White Sox. After holding a 1-0 lead for five frames, Faber weakened and allowed the Boston Red Sox three runs in the sixth. Hal McKinnis relieved him and got credit for the victory as Chicago rallied again and gained a 5 to 3 decision.

The victory moved Chicago back into sixth place as Washington pulled out a 10 to 9 victory over the St. Louis Browns in eleven innings. Two home runs by Cronin, the second of which tied the score in the ninth, featured the Senator Victory.

Another youngster of 39 years, Eppa Rixey, was given the task of trying to put the Cincinnati Reds into sixth place in the National League ahead of the Boston Braves at the start of yesterday's double header. He had a bad inning and was behind when taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Cincinnati rallied in the ninth to win, 8 to 7. In the second game the Braves took the decision, 6 to 5, and kept the teams in a tie.

Herb Pennock, Yankee member of the quintet, age 36, had a rough time of it against Cleveland and the Indians' rally netted five runs and a 10 to 5 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Phillies lost both games of a double header to the Pittsburgh Pirates, the first 2 to 1 and the second 16 to 15.

HORNSBY READY AUGUST 6
Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the Cubs' injured second baseman, did not join his mates today at Philadelphia as he had intended.

An examination of his left ankle, fractured in the morning game Memorial Day, yesterday revealed almost complete recovery, but it was decided additional rest would be beneficial. He will join the club when it returns from the east next week.

President William L. Veck of the club, said the Rajah's right heel, which handicapped him part of last season and during the early part of the present campaign, apparently was in shape and that Hornsby and 370 batting average probably would be ready for duty August 6.

OTHERS HOLD HONORS
New York, July 24.—(AP)—The

Brooklyn Robins lead the National League but their one-game superiority fails to show in the list of leaders of the various phases of the game. Three teams monopolize the honors with Klein of Philadelphia showing the way in batting, runs scored, runs batted in and hits and triples and doubles. Home run honors are held by Wilson of the Cubs, who's teammate, Kiki Cuyler, has stolen the most bases.

Tilden To Meet Borotra In First
Paris, July 24.—(AP)—William T. Tilden of the United States and Jean Borotra of France will dispute the first singles of the Davis Cup challenge round tomorrow at Roland Garros Stadium. The draw today also determined that in the second match George Lott, of the United States will meet Henri Cochet of France.

The luck of the draw once again placed upon Tilden practically the entire responsibility of carrying the burden of American hopes to capture the Davis Cup, for both American and French experts agree that upon the result of his match against Borotra rests the fate of the cup.

Experts felt that should Borotra defeat the American ace after seven successive beatings at the hand of Tilden, the United States would have to abandon all hopes for the trophy.

Division Legion Champs Will Meet
Decatur, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—The class of Illinois' younger set in baseball, members of four American Legion junior divisional championship nines, today entered the final stages of the battle for the downstate title.

Peoria and Ziegler were to meet at 3 p. m. in the Decatur Three-Eye club park and Springfield, winner of the state and regional titles last year, will clash with Elmhurst at the same time tomorrow afternoon.

The winners of these two games will meet at 3 p. m. Saturday to decide the downstate champion.

Final play for the state title will be between the downstate champions and the winners of the Chicago title in the Three-Eye club park at Springfield, August 9, 10 and 11. Plans are underway to play the state finals at night.

Jones Not To Play In Canadian Open

Ancaster, Ont., July 24.—(AP)—With Bobby Jones away from the golfing wars for the time being, MacDonald Smith, runner-up to the Atlantic in both the British and American open, is figured the best bet for the Canadian open golf championship opening at the Hamilton Country club today.

The 38-year-old Scot has been playing some of the best golf of his career but as it happens it was when Bobby was at the top of his game.

Mac Smith has a difficult job as practically all of the leading golfers of the North American continent are seeking the title won the past four years by Leo Diegel.

Eighteen holes will be played today and tomorrow with the final round of 36 holes Saturday.

JOCKEY FATALLY HURT

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—Little hope for the recovery of Steeplechase Jockey Harry Hunt, who was injured Tuesday when his mount, Flit, fell with him at Arlington Park, was entertained today. Hunt suffered a concussion of the brain and late last night had not regained consciousness.

COUNTY OFFICERS ASKED TO AID IN STATE CAMPAIGN

Oil Must Not Be Put On Pavements Or Earth Shoulders, Rule

Springfield, Ill., July 24.—(UP)—County officials were called upon today by Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets of the state highway department to keep oil off the state's paved roads because of the resulting hazards to traffic.

In a letter to those officials, Sheets cited the fact that "many accidents have occurred and material damage has been done" by oil that was either placed or permitted to be tracked on to the state's roads.

Chief Highway Engineer Sheets' letter follows:

"We have never approved of the placing of oil on pavement slabs nor on the earth shoulders or side roads adjacent thereto unless proper provision is made to keep the oil from being tracked on to the pavement. The unsightliness which results from oil being placed or tracked on the pavement is bad enough, but the slippery condition which follows is highly dangerous and seriously objectionable."

"We therefore must insist that no oil be placed on our paved road surfaces. We must insist further that no oil be placed on earth shoulders adjacent to our pavements unless the oil is covered by sand or gravel in such manner as will prevent tracking the oil on to the paved surface."

"Where oiling of shoulders is desirable, we will be glad to consult with the city or village officials to determine upon a plan of action which will not bring about objectionable results. However, any such work must hereafter be done under special permit from this department which should be obtained by applying to the district engineer having jurisdiction over the territory in question."

"In connection with the oiling of earth roads leading into our pavements, we find that the oil is tracked on to the pavement for several hundred feet. This also must be stopped and the local officials doing such oiling should place some covering material such as sand or small gravel for a sufficient distance back from the pavement to eliminate this tracking."

"We earnestly solicit your cooperation in carrying out these policies, in order that the pavements may not be disfigured and in order that the dangerous conditions which have occurred in the past may be avoided in the future."

Daily Health Talk

RELATION OF WEIGHT TO FOOD
By Emery R. Hayhurst, M. D.
Columbus, Ohio

CARE OF CHILDREN'S TEETH
By Elsie Gerlach, D. D. S.
Chicago, Illinois

There are a few principles which if followed faithfully will insure your children having a normal set of teeth when they grow up.
The first or baby teeth are formed in the baby's jaw before it is born. Therefore the health of the mother plays an important part in developing these teeth. Careful watching by the physician and full cooperation by the pregnant mother are the first steps in having good teeth. So much depends upon pre-natal care that if anything is overlooked, it will take years to correct, and cause much suffering on the part of the child. Weak baby teeth are the cause of so many dental ills which arise in later life.
After birth, the kind of food the baby receives from then on, will eventually influence its teeth. In clinics we find that the bottle fed babies have weaker teeth.
As the child begins to take solid food. From these it derives the elements which it needs to build strong teeth and bones. Sunshine and cod-liver oil are essential to activate the lime taken in the food. Without these the lime is not deposited in the bones and the teeth.
About the end of the second year all the baby teeth are in their places in the jaws, and underneath, the next or permanent set is forming. It is important that the dentist should see the child at this time and correct any defect. Entirely too much damage is done if one waits to take the child to the dentist when the first tooth-ache is experienced. Most of the misery could have been avoided had a competent dentist seen the child early enough. To wait until the tooth abscesses means a probable extraction, which usually results in trouble for the permanent tooth growing underneath.
Thorough cleansing around and between every tooth is a nicety which must be learned early in life. Careful home training is reflected in the health and cleanliness of the child's mouth. Parents should set a good example by taking care of their own teeth. Health workers are earnestly striving to attain the goal of perfect teeth for every child. Let us help them achieve success by carrying out in the home the fundamental rules of good health.

Borah To Campaign Against President

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Washington, July 23.—(AP)—The voice of Senator Borah, of Idaho, which played a leading part in the Hoover presidential race, is being pitched for new campaign efforts.
But unlike 1928, Senator Borah is preparing to campaign in the agricultural belt of the northwest next fall in opposition to the Hoover farm relief and tariff revision programs.
The Idaho Senator said today he had been requested to make some speeches in the northwest states and added he was seriously considering acceptance.
However, he must first take the rest which has been commanded by physicians. That rest will probably be for two months and will be taken in Idaho, if the doctors approve.
Borah was one of the leaders of the band of western Republican independents who fought for the export debenture principle of farm relief which was opposed by President Hoover. This same band also sought unsuccessfully to confine tariff revision to agricultural products alone.
The Idahoan is prepared to defend these contentions of the Republican independents. Several of the group are up for re-election this year and Borah himself is a candidate. He is ready to take the stump. He is ready to contend that the farm problem will not be settled until the program of the independents is adopted.

Now you can buy this stunning new Heavy Duty Goodyear for only $12.00

(4.50-21 size) (formerly 30 x 4.50)

The tire pictured is the handsome new Goodyear Heavy Duty in the 4.50-21 size (formerly 30 x 4.50)

The tire shown in this advertisement is right now one of the most attractive bargains ever offered a car-owner.

It is the new and nationally popular Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon.

Sales are rolling up on this great tire in a volume never before equaled in the rubberbusiness on a tire of super-standard quality.

One reason is the outstanding good looks and extraordinary merit of the tire; another reason is the amazingly low price at which it can now be sold.

The tire itself, as the name

Heavy Duty implies, is big, stout, massively proportioned, armored with an extra-thick and extra-safe All-Weather Tread—and around its sleek black sidewall runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

A striking feature is the way in which the outer rows of All-Weather blocks are prised down into the sidewalls, as fresh and smart a touch as anything in modern design.

Goodyear builds this stunning new Heavy Duty for those who want to drive fast and far without worry, and who want extra immunity against punctures, blowouts, or tire troubles of any kind.

Because crude rubber is cheap this year, you can buy this special Goodyear in the size illustrated for only about a dollar more than you had to pay last year for an ordinary tire in the same size—and other sizes are priced in proportion.

This is a real opportunity to make your tire money stretch its farthest, and keen buyers everywhere are cashing it in by changing over to Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloons.

Just look at the tire and you'll heed the suggestion: Now is the time to get yours!

Friday
Minnie Belle Rebekah Lodge—O. I. O. F. Hall.

FROM "THE CIRCUS"
THERE'S a welcome in my throat that says I can take more joy in the wonder of harboring ships than ever I took as a boy.
In the chariot race of the llamas, the dance of the Siamese twins,
The learned mink or the missing link or the dame with the multiple chins.

Oh, I like Pantaloon with the slapstick, but funnier now to me is a fussy, officious tug, that clown of the three-ring sea;—And more stirring than pink silk riders or elephants marching to war
Are miles on miles of barnacled piles and the outbound liner's roar.

Father F. L. Walsh Honored; Farewell Surprise in Harmon

A surprise farewell party was held Tuesday evening in St. Flannan's Catholic hall in Harmon in honor of Father Thomas L. Walsh, who has been appointed pastor of St. Patrick's church in Dixon, to succeed the late Reverend J. J. Clancy.

A short program was given, including the following:
Vocal Solo—Darlene Ostrander.
Reading—Little Miss Scanlon.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Theo. Fitzpatrick.
Duet—Little Misses Miller and Hermes.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Thomas McNeerney.
Duet—Misses Marion Blackburn and Arlene Malach.
Mrs. Roman Malach spoke a few well chosen words "Good-Bye," after which C. J. Mannion, before presenting Father Walsh with a purse of gold, gave a short talk in which he expressed his regret and that of all the parish at Father Walsh's departure to Dixon. The fact that Dixon is not far from Harmon is a great consolation and Harmon friends may always feel welcome to seek him and visit him. The appointment to the Dixon parish is a great promotion and all rejoice with Father Walsh for this opportunity.

Father Walsh then responded to all these kind remarks with a short and appreciative talk and words of thanks, and also gave all present his last blessing.
Later ice cream and cake were served by St. Ann's Sodality.
The Reverend F. L. Walsh will be succeeded in Harmon by the Reverend Mellinger, who has been assistant pastor in St. Nicholas church in Aurora. Father Mellinger was ordained April 16, 1907, in Rome, and has been in St. Nicholas church for the past three years.

From Mississippi farms at Oregon comes word that Col. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden have left for their eastern summer home, Castle Rest, in the Thousand Islands, and are opening it today. Their daughter, Miss Florence, and their son, George M. Pullman Lowden, are with them, and they expect their two other daughters, Mrs. John B. Drake, Jr., and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Jr., to forsake the Lake Geneva summer colony later in the summer long enough for a stay at Castle Rest.

Dolores Concerned In Domestic Tangle

Los Angeles, July 24—(AP)—Dolores Del Rio, motion picture star, today denied charges of Bunther R. Lessing, Hollywood attorney, she had influenced Mrs. Lessing to file suit for divorce.

The accusation against Miss Del Rio was made yesterday in Lessing's answer to the suit filed by his wife. Miss Del Rio later branded the lawyer's charges false.

Hundred Million For Woman 84 Years Old

New York, July 24—(UP)—An 84-year-old woman held sway alone today in the mysterious house at 442 Fifth Avenue that has resisted the march of progress for 74 years.

Death removed Miss Ella Wendel's only living sister Sunday and now she alone is left of the family of seven to administer the $100,000,000 Wendel real estate fortune and carry on the Wendel tradition.

It was in keeping with this tradition that the death of Mrs. Rebecca Wendel Swope, sixth sister, should not become known for three days. The last death in the family, that of brother John, was not known for over a month, so completely did the big brick house hide in cloistered seclusion the doings of its eccentric inhabitants.

To the thousands of people who hurried by today the mansion still held the same air of inscrutability. Built in 1856 for $5,000, no detail has been changed.

Adjoining the house is a lot, boarded in by a high fence, for which the two sisters once refused $300,000. They were unwilling to part with it because it provided a good runway for their dog and they needed it to hang up the washing in every Monday.

For 200 years no Wendel has sold a foot of the property.

Miss Ella is the greatest recluse of all the Wendels. It is said she can count on her fingers the number of times she has left the mansion.

In the old, spacious residence, Miss Ella will carry on the Wendel tradition, reading by gas light because the Wendels never installed electricity, doing without the telephone or an automobile, and remembering the four principles John Gottlieb Wendel set forth when he bought his first piece of real estate 200 years ago:

"Never mortgage anything, never sell any property, remember that Broadway moves north—ten blocks every decade, and require tenants to make their own repairs."

Understanding. As for the other things, I think just plain, "Do it," or "Don't do it," is best.

Desire Vs. Will
Why is it bad to make a child decide things too old for him? Because it leads to "conflicts" and unhappiness. It is the eternal battle between desire and will. He chooses desire, perhaps, because he can't reason out why he should go against his own wishes. Then follows either punishment or harangue on our part.

Maybe he doesn't reason at all, but makes his choice hit or miss, sometimes doing what he guesses he should do. The nerve conflicts are just the same. There is no question that throwing all decisions on a child causes him perplexities and mental exhaustion. In plain words it usually is a relief to children to be bossed.

But how are we going to cultivate decision and independence in children without disastrous results to nerves?

Three-Part Problem
A simple code of guidance is suggested here that incorporates three things. I think it is a good thing to tell all children this: "Face it and decide one way or the other, then plan, and last get to work."

Suppose a boy's mother is away and he sees that the garden is dry and full of weeds. His desire is to go fishing with the boys, but he knows his mother loves that garden and that it should be watered and weeded before the day is over. Another day of neglect and it will be ruined.

No one here to make his decision. The first thing he has to do with the problem is to "face it." That is the first lesson in his decision. He has to decide that there is a problem ahead of him and stand up to it.

Should Stick to Decision
Next, he should make up his mind

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We're taking too many things for granted when we urge children nowadays to make all their own decisions. We are prone to extremes.

Too often their decisions require experience and knowledge. We expect old heads on young shoulders.

But too much responsibility wears out children in time.

A certain amount of choice is good for them, and far be it from me to discourage initiative and self-reliance. But I should be sure that the point in question is something that comes within the child's range of

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

Sauces for Meats and Fowl

By ETIENNE ALLIO, Chef,
Hotel New Yorker, New York City

SKILLFULLY prepared sauces can add greatly to the appetite appeal of many kinds of meats and fowl. This secret the French discovered long ago, and it is unfortunate that the American housewife so often passes by the opportunity to give an added zest to the piece de resistance of the meal.

In making such sauces, the greatest care should be taken that the least possible amount of fat remains in the liquid. Another excellent point to remember is to add a little sugar to the other seasonings, not for sweetening purposes but to bind the various flavors.

Brown Sauce.—To make a brown sauce, for instance, heat a teaspoon of sugar until it melts, and add to the sauce, bringing it to a boil. It improves the flavor, browns the sauce and does not sweeten.

Orange Sauce for Roast Duck.—Brown two tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Add two tablespoons flour and stir until the mixture bubbles and becomes brown. Add three-fourths cup meat stock. Cook until smooth and creamy, stirring constantly. Add six drops onion juice, one-half teaspoon walnut ketchup, one teaspoon sugar, few grains cayenne, and salt to taste. Continue stirring and add juice and grated rind of two oranges. Bring to boiling point. Serve around fillets of breast of roast duck, arranged on a platter with a pile of wild rice in the center.

Sauce Chevreux for Fish, Poultry or Game.—Dissolve one teaspoon vegetable bouillon extract in one cup of boiling water. Add one-half teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon paprika, and salt to taste. Add one cup orange juice, pulp of two oranges, few slices of rind, and one teaspoon sugar. Brown two tablespoons butter in saucepan. Add two tablespoons flour, and cook until mixture is brown, smooth and creamy. Add slowly to stock mixture, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Take off fire and add one-half cup skinned and seeded white grapes.

Currant Sauce.—To make a currant sauce for roast lamb, add one glass currant jelly to a cup of brown gravy made from drippings in the pan. This is especially good when slices of the cold roast are warmed in it.

DANCING JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
 COPYRIGHT 1930 by CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH GRANT, artist's model, loves ALAN STEYNE, an actor who is the best friend. Chummy had loved Steyne years ago and lost her memory when he went away. But she loves Judith. Judith insists he must marry Chummy, who regains her memory when she sees him again. Judith studies dancing and becomes a star in a show headed by RICHARD WYON, later, however, she learns Wyon is just an agent for rich BRUCE GIDEON, who is infatuated with her. Meanwhile, Chummy leaves Judith and Steyne are in love and breaks her engagement, but Judith refuses to marry Steyne, telling him he belongs to Chummy. After some months, Judith believes Chummy and Steyne have resumed their engagement. Gideon traps Judith in his home and tries to attack her, but she escapes. Then he goes to her hotel and asks her to marry him. She refuses, and he asks her why she has led him on if she did not care for him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XXXVIII
 "Told you," Judy told Gideon quietly, "to pay you back for what you said to Mr. Stornaway about me."

"So you've been cherishing that all the time?"

"I've carried it in my mind."

"You're a revengeful, spiteful, hateful little cat!"

He spluttered the words out. He looked at her murderously but she was no longer afraid.

"You can call me what you like," she said. "That night, when your sister came to supper at your flat and sneaked away and left me alone with you, and you looked your front door—did you want to marry me then?"

A sudden stillness fell in that very ordinary hotel sitting room.

"Did you want to marry me—that night?" she asked again.

Those forces and feelings that lie dormant in the hearts of men were active and astir. The room quivered with them. It was an atmosphere of battle. The two measured each other as adversaries, and realized that all along they had been engaged in a fight.

And the man knew that he had lost. In those moments he looked into the naked soul of little Judy Grant, and he knew that he had lost far, far more than just a girl whose beauty and charm his covetous eyes had desired. He saw her pride and her strength and her purity, and he was awed.

He had looked right inside the shell of Judy Grant, whom he had considered fair game from his point of view, and he had seen something that made him turn his eyes away.

"So this is your revenge!" he said, and his voice broke.

"If you like to call it so."

He looked at her with something piteous in his eyes.

"I suppose I deserve it. I shall suffer for it; but I shall try to make you suffer, too!"

"That's what I should have expected of you, Mr. Punch."

"Perhaps you'll change your mind."

"It's not likely."

"Are you going to marry anybody else?"

London, vying in fame with Spurgeon's Tabernacle and the City Temple. Coming again to the United States in answer to an urgent call he became a great teacher and preacher in Georgia, later moving to Los Angeles, where he taught in the Bible Institute for several years. He resigned about two years ago. He is today the pastor of the Central Presbyterian church in Philadelphia. Such a man's talents cannot be confined within the bounds of any one church and we are fortunate indeed in being able to have him with us thus far for three days. Those who listened to him in 1927 will not readily forget his wonderful expositions of Divine Truth and will not fail to be inspired by his great mastery of the Word. His address on "The Romance of the Bible" stirred many hearts and we are sure that those who heard him before will not be absent when this Prince of Preachers honors our city with his presence.

BIBLE CONFERENCE
 August 3rd to 10th, 1930
 One of the greatest living preachers and teachers will be with us this year in the person of Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, of the Central Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. He was born in Cardiff, Wales, and was brought up in the Roath Wesleyan church of that city. His early desire was to enter the teaching profession in which he rose until he became Headmaster of a large Jewish school near Leeds, England. He was eminently successful in that sphere but his heart still was in the ministry. While engaged in teaching he received the lucrative position in the teaching profession, he became its pastor. The attention of D. L. Moody was drawn to the brilliant young teacher during one of his last visits to the United Kingdom and he invited him to Northfield as a member of the teaching staff there where he at once became a great success and where he taught for several years.

England began to awaken to a sense of his value and soon the call came across the ocean and he was asked to return to the famous Westminster Chapel at Buckingham Palace, London. Here his pastorate made history and a new era dawned for the church, and the deserted chapel became and still is one of the most popular down town churches in London.

ENDS PILES QUICK
 Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. Cutting and external remedies can't do this—an internal medicine must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere and has such a wonderful record of success right in this city that Rowland's Pharmacy says to every Pile sufferer, try HEM-ROID at myrisk. It must end all Pile agony or you get your money back—Adv.

"Not that I know of."

"Are you lying to me?"

"It's a thing I don't often do."

She smiled mockingly. "I find the truth serves me well enough. And now I think you'd better go. I've got an appointment in a few minutes."

HE turned toward the door. Rage and hatred were in his soul, and the madness of baffled desire, which would companion him for many a day; but he controlled himself.

"I shall try to make you change your mind. I shall live for that!"

"You'll waste your time," she said. "You'd much better forget all about me. I'm sailing for Sweden next week. I shall be away all the rest of the summer. I'm planning to live abroad a good deal."

"I shall follow you."

"Well, I don't advise you to."

"I shan't be able to help myself, Judy!"

Her name came groaningly from his lips. It was an appeal. Even now he could not understand; but she made a little gesture of dismissal and he had to go.

She followed him to the door and watched him go along the corridor. His great bulk hung forward; he shambled, bowed at the shoulders. She thought he looked like a mountain about to tumble down. She was not quite sure that there was not a scrap of pity for him in her heart.

She went back to the couch and sat down, her hands hanging listlessly beside her.

She had been false to what she had meant to do. She had meant to marry Gideon—for Chummy's sake. She had meant to prove to Alan Steyne once and for all that she was worthless and ready to sell herself for gold. That would have done the trick, she knew. Steyne would have loathed and despised her, and would have turned to Chummy.

But she couldn't bring herself to do it when it came to the point. She was a coward—that was the truth. Her triumph was a failure, after all.

With a tremendous sigh she went and tidied her hair, changed her hat, put on a light wrap, and went downstairs, asking the hall porter to call her a cab. She was due at one of the smaller concert halls at six o'clock. Gregor Gostelvitsh was coming there to a room that they had hired. He was bringing a friend to play over to her certain parts of the "Suite Ecossaise" that he had composed for her.

He had not been satisfied with the finale the last time, and she was to dance it in Stockholm at an early date. He could not play it himself, because of his broken wrist—which, however, was doing as well as could be expected.

As she drove to the hall, her depression spread itself over the wonderful Scottish ballet music of the young master, and she wished he had never written it for her. Through her closed lids she saw that gray-green scene of mountain and fir trees and brawling streams, with the pale sun illuminating it.

But for the ingratitude of it, she would have decided then and there not to give that dance. She felt all of a sudden that it would be unlucky, that it would bring evil in its train. By the time she reached her destination, she dreaded the beautiful "Suite Ecossaise" as those given to superstition dread the evil eye.

AS it happened, the "Suite Ecossaise" set the seal on Judy's career. The northern countries went mad about it. There was something in that interpretation of hers, much elaborated since she had first danced it a Pimprouste in Bruce G

Henry Spangler Is Injured In Accident

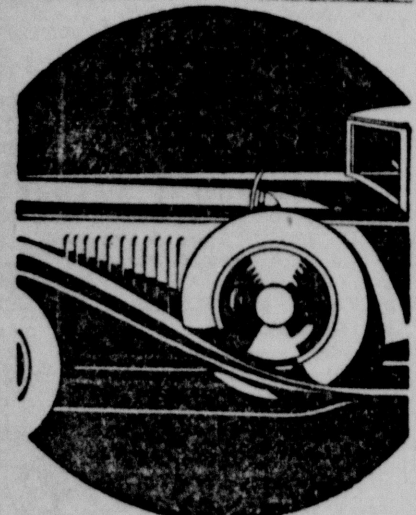

Two automobiles were almost demolished in a crash Tuesday eve, about 10:30 just east of the Crawford Maples refreshment stand, a machine driven by Art Hagerman of Sterling, in which his brother Chester and Miss Mary Wilson of Sterling, were passengers, and another driven by Henry Spangler of Nachusa township in which Charles Spangler and family were passengers figuring in the accident.

Both cars were traveling west on the Lincoln Highway, the Spangler car leading. As the front car started to turn left off the highway to enter the Spangler farm residence, the Sterling machine started to pass. Mr. Spangler, seeing the other car, attempted to pull back on the road but the Hagerman machine struck the rear of the Spangler car, turning it around and overturning it in a ditch. Mr. Spangler was pinned beneath the wrecked machine and suffered painful bruises but sustained no broken bones. He was brought to Dixon and attended by a physician, and returned to his home. The other occupants of the two cars escaped with only minor bruises and slight cuts.

Geneva, Ill., July 23.—(UP)—Hearing will be held before Judge John K. Newhall Friday on an injunction sought by members of Elgin Silver Leaf Camp No. 60, Modern Woodmen of America, against national officers of the organization to restrain them from raising the insurance rates.

The new rates were adopted last December by the Head Camp of the fraternal organization.

WEALTHY HOBO DEAD AS RESULT OF SELF DENIAL

James Eads How Victim of Pneumonia Aided Unfortunates

Staunton, Va., July 23.—(AP)—James Eads How, the "millionaire hobo," is dead as the result of 15 years of self-denial.

Physicians attending him in a hospital yesterday said death was due to pneumonia evidently superinduced by starvation. He was 56.

Despite a bequest of $500,000 from his mother, Mrs. Eliza Eads How in 1915, he had denied himself the necessities of life to aid unfortunates, especially hoboes. His time and energy, as well as his fortune, were spent in the interest of migratory workers and he was the financial "angel" of the International Brotherhood of Welfare Association, with hobo shelters in 16 cities.

How was the son of a distinguished St. Louis family and was well educated. John How, his paternal grandfather, was Mayor of St. Louis several terms before the Civil War, and his father, the late James F. How, was Vice President and General manager of the Wabash Railroad. His mother's father was James Buchanan Eads, building of Eads bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis.

The millionaire hobo studied at Harvard and later became a licensed physician, although he never practiced.

One-half of How's share of the estate, or $250,000, was left by his mother in trust, but he was said to have spent almost all of the remaining quarter million and the income from the trust fund on his charitable interests.

Vice-President's Son Is Accused Of Fraud

Chicago, July 23.—(AP)—Harry K. Curtis, Chicago attorney and son of the Vice President, has been sued for damages by two architects and a contractor who charge they paid him to secure government contracts which never materialized.

The architects, Angelo Zucco and A. M. Friedman, in their complaint charged that they gave Curtis a $500 check to secure the contract of drawing plans for a postoffice at Ottawa, Ill.

Max Kowarski, the contractor, alleged he paid the attorney a like sum and in return was to receive the roofing contract on the proposed new Chicago postoffice.

Damages in each suit were placed at $1,000. Both complaints set out that Curtis, in a verbal agreement, promised to hold the checks in escrow until the contracts were awarded. Instead, the complainants charged, the attorney indorsed and deposited the checks in his bank.
